Quality Improvement Plan Summary

O'Halloran Hill Kindergarten

Goals	Challenge of Practice	Success Criteria
To develop children's critical thinking skills through the engagement with text.	If we focus on specific evidence informed teaching strategies aimed at developing children's critical thinking skills through engagement with text then we will improve children's critical thinking about text including their choices and purpose.	Through regular critical analysis and reflection of our documentation we will observe children - demonstrating their understanding of book knowledge. - contributing to discussions about texts in a variety of situations. - making choices to engage in texts for enjoyment and meaning (reasoning, non/fiction). - articulating or demonstrating their critical thinking about texts, for example questioning, predicting, interpreting, evaluating, and explaining. - continuity of learning between kindy and home (bringing books from home both texts and books children have made).

National Quality Framework Priorities	Key steps
Review our Site Philosophy Statement	Review this as a staff team. Survey families regarding the philosophy statement. Ask children what is important to them about kindy. Collate all data and review as a staff team. Present at Parent Voice for further review and discussion. Ratify at Parent Voice meeting and share with the kindy community.
Review each of our roles and responsibilities at the site	Review as a staff team during week 0 2023
